CLINIC L, Patras

GERMAN DESIGN AWARD SPECIAL 2023

Description

The clinic was set up after the renovation of the entire floor of a 1960's apartment building. It consists of five separate spaces to serve the needs of a modern clinic. The continuity of the space is achieved by the use of natural materials, white color, lighting design and bespoke furniture. The entrance of the surgery is in communication with the luminaire, so a transition was proposed in which the wood was used on the floor as well as in the vertical elements. The aim was to create a functional space that is characterized by 'warmth', 'tranquility', simplicity of colors and materials where the doctor's needs played an important role.
